MorphoTrust USA, Manufacturer of 80 Percent of The Country's Driver Licenses, Announces All Factories Now ISO Certified

Billerica, Mass. – May 17, 2016

MorphoTrust USA \(Safran\) announced today that its factories, which manufacture 80 percent of the US driver licenses, have all achieved a high certification for superior security standards in the credential process from the International Organization for Standardization (ISO). The certification, ISO 14298, governs security printing and specifies the highest possible security requirements for certain printing systems. MorphoTrust is the only manufacturer of driver licenses in the US that has achieved this certification. MorphoTrust also previously received the North American Security Product Organization (NASPO) certification on each of its factories where driver licenses are produced, making MorphoTrust the only driver license producer to receive both the ISO and NASPO certifications on all of its factories.

"We are in the business of protecting identities," said Dennis Kallelis, Chief Security Officer, MorphoTrust. "Getting all our factories ISO certified further validates our commitment to our customers, the states, to ensure we are handling their citizens' identities with a level of privacy and security that is second to none."

MorphoTrust's security printing management system complies with relevant laws and regulations in force, and also demonstrates MorphoTrust's commitment to assisting customers in becoming compliant with the REAL ID Act. The ISO certification is renewed annually.
